Youth Development at UCR Recreation Supporting Personal Development and Academic Ambition
Soft Skill Development

Youth Programs at UCR Recreation offer a wide-range of programs which are designed to teach and bolster personal skills in the youth we serve through instruction, activities and positive interaction. We understand soft skills are important attributes in the growth and development of young people, which is why each activity is specifically layered to target skills including teamwork, leadership, attention-span, adaptability, decision making, time-management, brainstorming, critical thinking, fairness, work ethic and self-confidence to name a few.
